Consumption Cured.
THE JUDGE OF HANOVER COUNTY SPEAKS.
Tim Howard suffered for three years with lung and throat troubles, and last spring was thought by his neighbors to be dying. I heard of his condition and gave him A. B. C. Tonic. Its effect was magical. In a very short time he was able to leave his bed, and now regards himself a well man. Others in this vicinity have taken the "Tonic" with pronounced benefit.

To be Honored for Her Bravery.
Miss Maggie Reppert, a girl of 15 living four miles from Adel, Ga., on the edge of No-man's-land Swamp, was honored on Christmas by a dinner given to her by the young men of the town. It was because of the girl's pluck in killing a big black bear, and prominent among the course was bear steak. Mr. Reppert, one of the most noted hunters of that section, and is so ardent in the chase that his daughter inherits the enthusiasm. Last year she went with him on his trip for game through the swamp, and became expert in the use of both gun and knife. On Monday the father went to Savannah to dispose of his game, leaving his daughter home to look after four younger children, the mother having died a few months ago. During the night the children cried for water and Maggie went to the well to draw it. The well was about 100 yards from the house, and the night was bright and clear. While drawing the water a sensation of dread came upon her as her quick ear detected the sound of heavy footsteps. She knew what they meant. Looking around, the young girl saw a huge bear in the pathway and making for the house. The door was open, and the cries of the children when they saw the bear urged her for the fight. Grasping her father's hunting knife, which she had carried out with her for protection, she ran rapidly after the animal, to catch him before he could seize any of the children. Just as the bear had reached the door he heard the girl's footstep behind him. He turned, and falling on his hands, let his big paws fall upon the girl's shoulders. Quick as a flash she buried the knife in his throat. With a shudder the bear fell backward. Miss Maggie then thrust the knife into his heart, killing him. She left him there and went to bed. At daybreak she arose, and with the aid of the children skinned and dressed the animal for market. The news of the encounter spread rapidly, and as a reward for her bravery the dinner was suggested.

CO-OPERATIVE HOUSEKEEPING.—Evansville is Chicago's most aristocratic and exclusive suburb. A short time ago its residents had an economical streak and formed a co-operative housekeeping association. It was also intended to solve the servant girl problem, and consequently when the scheme went into effect on the 6th inst., the Evansville housewives discharged their cooks. A great central kitchen was established and placed in charge of Henry L. Grant, who was one time the head of a big establishment in Paris. A capital of $5,000 was subscribed, and Mr. Grant agreed to furnish meals for $4 per person per week. Since the project was put under way, however, everything has gone wrong. Meals sent in wagons to the houses of subscribers arrived irregularly, and then it was discovered that $4 per person per week wouldn't cover expenses by any means. A deficit of $2,000 was created and the discovery was made that it would take about $7 per person per week to take both ends into account. Mr. Grant resigned and his resignation has been accepted, but no one has yet been found to take his place. The promoters considered him too extravagant and are of the opinion that with a little economy the scheme can be developed into a paying one. As it is now the meals cost too much, though the food furnished by Mr. Grant has been above reproach. Such things as olives, pickles, jellies, &c., are extra, but are furnished to patrons at cost price. As soon as possible the $2,000 deficit will be made up and the era of economy will be inaugurated.
